FOR CANADIAN TAXPAYERS

The following table outlines the breakdown of the cash distributions per unit paid or payable by Crescent Point Energy Trust with respect to the record dates from January 31, 2007 to December 31, 2007 for Canadian income tax purposes.

The first is from January 1 – March 1, 2007 and the second is from March 2 – December 31, 2007. The amount of the distributions which are taxable in each of the two taxation years is outlined in the table below. Unitholders who held their units throughout the year will receive a separate T3 slip for each of the two taxation years.

Units held within an RRSP, RRIF, or DPSP

No amount should be reported on the 2007 individual Income Tax Return (“T1”) in respect of trust units held in a Registered Retirement Savings Plan (RRSP), Registered Retirement Income Fund (RRIF), or Deferred Profit Sharing Plan (DPSP).

Units held outside an RRSP, RRIF, or DPSP

Registered unitholders who held units outside an RRSP, RRIF, or DPSP will receive a T3 Supplementary Slip for 2007 (“T3”) from our transfer agent, Olympia Trust Company, on or before March 31, 2008. Individual unitholders must report the taxable portion of such distributions in their 2007 T1. Unitholders who held units through intermediaries such as investment advisers will be issued T3s from those intermediaries on or before March 31, 2008.

Adjusted Cost Base Reduction

The Adjusted Cost Base (“ACB”) is used in calculating capital gains or losses on the disposition of units held as capital property by a unitholder. The ACB of each unit is reduced by the portion of distributions considered a return of capital.

FOR U.S. RESIDENTS

The following information is provided for general information only. Investors are encouraged to seek advice from a qualified tax advisor in their country of residence to obtain guidance with respect to the appropriate tax treatment of their distributions.

We believe that we are a corporation for United States federal income tax purposes and, as a result, a distribution that we make on a unit is treated as a dividend for United States federal income tax purposes. This treatment of our distributions is based on the fact that we have not determined, and do not intend to determine, our current or accumulated earnings and profits. In the absence of such information, we believe that a United States person should report our distributions as fully subject to United States federal income tax. We believe such distributions should be considered “qualified dividends” for purposes of United States income taxation. Such a dividend received by an individual would be taxed by the United States at a maximum federal rate of 15 percent if such individual meets certain holding period requirements and certain other requirements of the United States Internal Revenue Code are satisfied.

The 15 percent Canadian non-resident withholding tax on distributions to United States residents may be eligible for a foreign tax credit in the United States. Any credit is subject to certain limitations imposed by the Internal Revenue Code. Such Canadian withholding taxes cannot be used as a credit against such federal income taxes if such taxes can be recovered from Canada as an overpayment.

GENERAL

The information in this release is not intended to be an exhaustive discussion of all possible income tax consequences but a general guideline. It is not intended to be legal or tax advice to any particular holder or potential holder of units. The holders or potential holders of units should consult their own tax advisors as to their particular tax consequences and reporting obligations.
